BETHANY COLLEGE

What Shall Its Future Be is Now the Question.

THE OUTLOOK IS ENCOURAGING

For the Success of the Movement to Raise an Endowment Fund-Responses to Appeals that Have been Made-A Call for a Special Meeting of the Alumni Associa tion to Consider Ways and Means-Determined Effort by the Committee of Trustees.

Incident to the commencement season and the closing of the spring term at Bethany College, the all-absorbing question among the friends of the institution is, what shall be its future? Shall Bethany College be permitted, for Shall Bethany College be permitted, for want of financial assistance, to close her doors forever, or be absorbed by another institution, and her glorious history end here? It seems that this shall not be, for it is announced that the trustees, who in last February, resolved to make an earnest effort to save the college from the fate that threatened her, are meeting with a deof success, which warrants the prediction that she will continue "to send forth to serve the church and state prediction that she will continue "to send forth to serve the church and state men and women of like culture and spirit with those who have hitherto gone out of her classic halls."

The appeals which have gone out from the trustees and the officers of the alumni association have not been in vain, but much yet remains to be done. In a circular letter issued by George C. Curtis, secretary of the alumni association, calling a special meeting of that organization, during commencement week, June 17, attention is called to the urgency of the situation and the encouragement alread received in the following language:

"In January last, the trustees were called by the executive committee, composed of members of the faculty, to meet at Pittsburgh, Pa. February 18, to consider among other things, such a proposition. Upon gathering it was ascertained to be the unanimous feeling of those present and those heard from, that the college should be continued, and that renewed efforts should be made, to place her upon a foundation of removal. No proposition to remove was offered, but such sentiment was disdained and repudiated. On the other hand many offers of assistance were read, which assured those interested, that friends would rally to her support and place her in a better condition for usefulness, than ever before.

"With confidence in the assurances and sentiment received, the trustees to reorganize the faculty, revise the course, and readjust the finances.

"All indications point to a general arterest in, and united effort for, old Bethany. The chancellor was relieved of the pastorate of the church at Beatrice, Nebraska, on May 20, and is meeting appointments made by friends of the college in Missouri and other western interest its soliciting funds to meet the present necessities and future needs of the college. At his command, and the requests of many of the graduates, and friends of the college. It issue the following call: "There will be a special meeting of the Alumni and Alumnae Association, in Chapel Hall, on Wednesday, June 17, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., that they may be in communication with the board of trustees, and that the two bodies may act in conjunction, in devising measures and obtaining means to place the "Mother of Colleges" upon a basis, that will remove all fears or doubts as to her future. It is confidently expected that each loyal son and daughter under whose notice this falls, will accept it as a personal notice and call, from the association and managers of the institution, and will be present or respond by letter, and in any event, devote his or her share in labor and money to make their Alma Maier a worthy monument to her great founder.

"In the name of the thousands who have given of their labor, their wealth, their poverty; the hundreds of her great and honored dead; their and your posterity in the name of the sake of the great cause in which she is first. I beseech you one and all, to help preserve that beacon light, which has guided a million followers and dazzled another million admirers, and endow her with great capacity, to meet the requirements of the formittee Says.

A similar chroubles; here issued by she hand its and the same of the sevent who have here here fitted by the band.

What the Committee Says. A similar circular has been issued by the committee appointed by the board

A similar circular has been issued by the committee appointed by the board of trustees, consisting of Pesident H. McDiamid, F. D. Powell, and Judge John A. Campbell, in which there is set forth a review of the present circumstances, with the following statement: "In addition to the regular income, from tuition, from interest on notes, and from gifts, Bethany College needs, at least $5,000 annually to pay current expenses. The interest on an endowment of $100,000 would meet this demand, and end all uncertainty as to the future of the institution. The trustees have declied to undertake the work of raising this amount during the next three years. Already ten persons have pledged themselves to find one thousand dollars ($1,000) each on the plan proposed. The plan is to secure one hundred persons that will become responsible for $1,000 each, or at least undertake to raise this amount, the money to be due when the whole amount is secured, though the time of payment may be extended. Interest is to begin when the notes are given, and the interest alone can be used for current expenses. The endowment itself will be safely invested and kept intact as an interest-bearing fund. This means a supreme effort for a great end, an effort that is not to entertain for a moment the foar of failure."

The outlook now having taken on such an encouraging phase, there is, reason to believe that the opening of the September term of the college will witness the inauguration of a new life to the institution. Very little financial aid comes from this state, as there are comparatively few members of the denomination which he borders and none of great wealth. "But Bethany," says the appeal, "Is not a state institution, she belongs to the brotherhood. From the beginning appear has been made to the brotherhood of large, and money came from all parts of the land."

A Chance for Wealthy People.

A Chance for Wealthy People. The circular concludes as follows: "There are Disciples of considerable wealth, both men and women, who have wealth, both men and women, who have reached a period in life when the thought comes home to them, as it did not ir earlier years, that this world is not our everlositing dwelling place. They are thinking of remembering the cause of Christ in their last will and testament. They desire that their good works shall follow them it both worlds, this and that which is to come. To use he would neation Bethany. Money thus bestowed will continue to helps the world throughout the future the world throughout the future

It would be a pity, indeed, if so famous an institution of learning should have to end its career for want of financial aid, and all citizens of West Virginia, and of the Pan Hundle in particular, irrespective of ereed, will unite in the hope that the efforts now being made to secure an adequate endowment will be crowned with success.

Bethany College, it may be said here, has graduated more than eight hundred young men and young women. "Many of these," say the trustees, "have become illustrious. Their names are household words. They very generally occupy the high places amongst us. As writers in our religious papers, as menchers, as judges, as lawyers, as dectors, as presidents and professors in our colleges, and as men of affairs in church and state, they have taken high rank. If you go to the halls of legislation, they are there; if to the foreign missionary field, there you will find them. We mention no names, as the list of Bethany's illustrious sons and daughters would overrun all reasonable spack."

The complete emptiness of the stomach during sleep adds greatly to the amount of emaciation, sleeplessness and general weakness so often met with. There is perpetual change of tissues in the body, sleepling or waking, and the supply of nourishment ought to be somewhat continuous and food taken just before retiring adds more tissue than is destroyed and increased weight and vigor is the result. Dr. W. T. Cathell says: "All animals except man eat before sleep and there is no reason in nature why than should form the exception to the rule."

If people who are thin, nervous and sleepless would take a light lunch of bread and milk or oatimeal and cream and at the same time take a safe, harmless stomach remedy like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in order to aid the stomach in digresting it, the result will be a surprising increase in weight, strength and general vigor. The only drawback has been that thin, nervous, dyspeptic people cannot digest and assimilate wholesome food at night or any other time. For such it is absolutely necessary to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they will digest the food no matter how weak the stomach may be, nourishing the body and resting the stomach at the same time. Dr. Stevenson says: "I depend almost entirely upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. just cighty-live miles of streets obstructed by debris as a result of the tornado. All of these streets have been made passable and will be cleaned up in ten days. In the city there are 480 miles of improved streets, so it can be seen to what extent the tornado interrupted traffic. The storm district, on its outside lines, extended from the river on the east to Tower Grove avenue on the west, and from Olive street on the north to Lynch street on the south.

This comprises an area of six square miles. The extreme limits were three miles east and two miles west and north. An adequate idea of the damage can be formed when it is stated that if all the houses damaged and blown down were on both sides of one street, that street would be just ninety-five miles long. The figure is given by the street commissioner, who has been through the entire district, and from the reports of his general superintendent, who has cut a roadway through the eighty-live miles of streets.

In addition to this there were many streets obstructed by wires and the like which are not counted in the total.

COLD-BLOODED BUTCHERY

Of Defenseless Sick and Wounded in a Cuban Hospital by Spanish Troops. NEW YORK, June 4.—The World this morning publishes the following special correspondence from San Cristobal, Cuba, dated May 10:

The following story of the cold blooded butchery of more than forty wounded and sick Cubans in a hospital and of four prisoners after the fight at Las Domas de Jungene was told to your correspondent by Spanish soldlers who took part in it, and they spoke as if such massacres were every day occurrences with them:

"Our column under General Serano left San Cristohal May 4 to operate in the mountains between here and the north coast. At midnight we camped, but at 5 a. m. the bugies sounded for us to be up. We were preparing to break camp when suddenly there was a call to arms. A moment later there came a perfect rain of bullets.

"Then the insurgents began to close in upon us. Several times they came down upon us with tremendous fury, swinging machetes above their heads, but it was impossible for them to stand before the fire of our mausers.

"We were under fire and constant menace of the machete until past noon, when the enemy apparently withdrew. A consultation was held by our officers and it was learned that retreat was cut off.

"When night came we were still on the mountain side, Day dawned, and with light came the enemy's fire.

"Thus we fought on, our boys falling about us in a dreadful manner, when suddenly we heard the distant boom of a cannon. We knew assistance had arrived from Bahia Honda and that the enemy were being attacked in the rear.

"The insurgents fire was gradually withdrawn and we succeeded in taking possession of their camp. They had retreated, but had occupied another height, where they defled us.

"It was all we could do to attend to our dead and wounded. Cach of the other hatallions lost as many or more.

"We carried our wounded to Bahla Honda, where they were shipped to Havana. Then with a rest we returned to this place.

"On the road the day before our fight in the forest we had passed a fine house. It was said that the general had stopped there and had been well received by a man occupying the place, who said he knew nothing of the insurgents. As we came to this house on our return a halt was ordered and our officers went into the house.

"The general went up to the man, shook hands with him and then invited him out doors, where he ordered him to be killed with the machete. We then examined the house and found various bottles of medicines, which eatisfied us that the house was an insurgent hospital and the man we had killed was their doctor.
